

ACTOR Brad Pitt hated seeing his children learn to surf in Australia because he has a crippling fear of sharks.

The star (above) and his wife, Angelina Jolie, spent time in Australia this year while she was filming her movie, Unbroken, and their older children learned how to ride waves during their stay.

But Jolie has revealed Pitt could not bear to watch the youngsters in the water because he was terrified of shark attacks. "Daddy didn't want to know when they were in the water because he has a shark phobia," Jolie said.